LABOR ACTS CONFERENCE AUTHORISED UNDER WAY

Survey Made Of Progress On Washington Suggestions

BILLS ARE PASSED

France, Britain, Germany, Japan, South Africa Report Moves

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 27.—The twelve months in which the Governments concerned were required to carry out their obligations under the Washington Labor Conference which ended on January 27, 1920, expired today. The International Labor Office issues an account of State Legislation in that connection in various countries.

It shows that Canada has referred the Convention's recommendations to the provincial authorities and that the Federal Parliament is considering the matter next session. In France, a bill regarding employment of women before and after childbirth has been passed by the Chamber of Deputies, and the remaining conventions are being examined by the Labor Commission of the Chamber.

MEASURES IN GERMANY

In Germany, the Federal Cabinet is examining legislative measures in this connection. In Britain, a bill has been passed regarding juvenile employment, and night-work for women, and the Government intends to legislate for the eight-hour day.

In India, the Convention's recommendations have been examined by the Government and proposals will shortly be submitted to the Legislative Council. In Japan, bills have been prepared and it is expected that all the Conventions will be ratified within the next six months. In South Africa, the principal Hours Convention has been accepted by the Government and a bill has been prepared. Australia is not mentioned.

POSTPONE DECISION

London, Jan. 27.—The National Labor Conference today postponed till February 23 its decision to take direct action if the Government does not accept its unemployment proposals, which include a universal 44 hour week, State unemployment benefit, total rejection of short-time proposals, the increase of the school age to sixteen, and the resumption of commerce with Russia and Central Europe.

WRITES TO MOSCOW

London, Jan. 27.—Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., on behalf of the Labor Party, wrote Krassin on November 19, specifying a series of severe disciplinary measures which had been taken by the Soviet authorities against persons who furnished the British Labor delegation with information during the delegation's visit to Russia, despite a previous assurance to the contrary. Mr. Henderson invited observations from the Soviet Government upon the matter.

Krassin replied on December 28 admitting Mr. Henderson's charges but denying that the treatment accorded the persons in question was associable with the British delegation's visit. He pointed out that the Soviet has never disguised its so-called unconstitutional methods in its struggle against counter-revolution, but the Soviet refuses to entertain any attempts to exercise influence on its interpal policy or to give any undertaking as a condition of foreign support.

Ex-Kaiser Summoned In Action For Libel

(Reuter's Service)

Amsterdam, January 27.—The Rotterdamsche Nieuwsblad is summoning the ex-Kaiser as a witness in a libel action brought against the paper by a German resident named Reisbermann, who, it is alleged, has been using visiting-cards inscribed "Steward and Private Secretary to his Majesty William II at the Chateau, Doorn," and offering for sale pictures and furniture belonging to the ex-Kaiser.

Move Made In Furbush Case Aimed At American Court Methods In Criminal Cases

Contention Raised In Brief Asking New Hearing Is That Conviction Is Invalid Because Trial By Jury Was Not Granted

An effort to bring about a complete change of procedure in holding criminal trials in the United States Court for China is made in a brief filed yesterday in the Court by Mr. R. T. Bryan of Fleming, Davies and Bryan in support of the motion filed by Mr. M. L. Heen for a new trial in the case of Herny B. Furbush who was found guilty of murder in the second degree after the killing of Richard Hazelton and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The entire brief is given over to an argument that Furbush's conviction is not valid by reason of the fact that the trial was not by jury. It has been held that this question was decided by the United States Supreme Court in what is known as the Ross case in which it was held that the constitutional guarantee of trial by jury does not apply outside of the borders of the United States.

One contention advanced in the brief is that the decision in the Ross case was given before the laws of the District of Columbia and the Territory of Alaska had been extended to American citizens residing in Japan or China and before the United States Court for China was established.

The brief in support of motion for the trial follows:

INTRODUCTION

The main question involved in this motion is the right of trial by jury. In this regard paragraph one of the motion provides:

"That said defendant was tried by the Court sitting without a jury and was convicted by said Court on the 22nd day of January, 1921, by the Judge of said Court, who tried and decided both the facts and the law, contrary to the laws and Constitution of the United States of America, and that on account of said defendant being tried by said Court without the aid or assistance of a jury, said conviction is void and invalid."

We approach this subject with all due respect to the Court and the learned trial Judge. We are aware of the decision cammonly called the Ross case and also of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States holding that a person charged with crime in the Philippine Islands is not entitled to a trial by jury. None of these decisions, however, are controling in this jurisdiction as will be seen from the following paragraphs of this brief.

It is a well settled rule that one who is charged with a felony cannot waive a trial by jury.

Re C. W. McQuown 11 L.R.A. (E.S.) 1136. See long note. 24 Cyc. 154

The Court never represented to the defendant that he was entitled to a jury trial hence he had no choice in the matter and accordingly nothing to waive.

The Court had no jurisdiction over the defendant and its decision is accordingly void.

The defendant is entitled to a jury trial: (1) By virtue of the common law: (2) By virtue of the Constitution: and (3) By virtue of the Federal statutes. We will now take up these three points in detail:

I

The defendant is entitled to a trial by jury by virtue of the common law.

The statute creating this court provides:

"Sec. 4. (Jurisdiction of court and consular courts and exercise thereof.) The jurisdiction of said United States court, both original and on appeal, in civil and criminal matters, and also the jurisdiction of the consular courts in China, shall in all cases be exercised in conformity with said treaties and the laws of the United States now in force in reference to the American consular courts in China, and all judgments and decisions of said consular court, and all decisions, judgments and decrees of said United States court, shall be enforced in accordance with said treaties and laws. But in all such cases when such laws are deficient in the provisions necessary to give jurisdiction or to furnish suitable remedies, the common law and the law as established by the decision of the courts of the United States shall be applied by said court in its decisions and shall govern the same subject to the terms of any treaties between the United States and China. (34 Stat. L. 815)."

In construing this statute the Circuit Court of Appeals in the well known Biddle case said:

"And we are of opinion that in making the common law applicable to offenses committed by American citizens in China, and other countries with which we have

MARQUIS OXUMA GIVES HIS VIEWS ON DISARMAMENT

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, January 27.—Marquis Okuma, in his own magazine, the Taikan, for February, contributes a striking article on disarmament, in which he says:

"The question of the reduction of armaments is welcomed by Japan, who is at present suffering under the burden of the naval increase. Japan will be second to none in favor of disarmament as soon as it becomes a practical international issue. In the interest of humanity and the world's peace, the sooner the issue becomes a practical one, the better for all parts of the world.

"Let the two greatest naval Powers, America and Great Britain, initiate this move, and I have no doubt that Japan, France and Italy will gladly subscribe. Such a practical step by these five Powers will certainly be an epoch-making event, leading mankind to its ultimate destiny of peace and good-will. Japan looks forward to it, and would not hesitate to contribute to the realisation of world concord."

Guns Discovered At Koenigsberg

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 27.—The Inter-Allied Control Commission at Berlin has discovered at Koenigsberg a store of guns which had not been declared by the German authorities. It includes two howitzers of a new type. General Nollet, President of the Commission, who is now in Paris, was immediately informed of the discovery, and the Supreme Council has been notified.

REPORT DE VALERA DISTRUSTS OFFERS OF LLOYD GEORGE

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 27.—It is reported from Paris that President de Valera is in France, according to the Oeuvre, which publishes an account of an interview with the Sinn Fein leader, whom the interviewer addressed throughout as "Monsieur le President."

De Valera is represented as saying that he had returned because he was awaiting a real and definite peace, but distrusted Mr. Lloyd George's peace offers.

He said that Dominion status was impossible for Ireland as there was no comparison between the historic relationship of England and Ireland and the relationship between England and the Dominions.

New York, Jan. 27.—It is rumored that Mr. O'Callaghan, the Lord Mayor of Cork, whose arrival in America as a stowaway led to considerable official disturbance, has left secretly for Ireland.

Harding Calls Navy Nation's 'Great Wall'

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Jan. 28.—President-Elect Harding, in a letter to the service organ, "Our Navy," says the Navy is the "Great Wall" of America. A Navy that is "almost good enough" would be finally more costly to the safety of the United States than no Navy at all.

America, he says, does not want the Navy for conquest, and he adds: "We would all like reduced armaments, but as long as there is need for national defense, we must maintain the Navy."

SINO-JAPANESE MILITARY PACT IS ABROGATED

Agreement Signed By Military And Naval Authorities In Peking

FINAL FORMALITIES TODAY

Obata And Foreign Minister To Exchange Official Notes

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, January 27.—Chinese and Japanese military and naval authorities at Peking signed an agreement this afternoon, abolishing the Sino-Japanese military Pact, which was signed in May, 1918, provided for Sino-Japanese military co-operation to guard against the penetration of enemy influence in the Russian Far East, and was to terminate with the end of the war.

TO EXCHANGE NOTES

Notes will be exchanged tomorrow or on Saturday by the Foreign Minister, Mr. W. W. Yen and the Japanese Minister, Mr. Obata, officially declaring the abrogation of the pact, which will be final.

Harbin, Jan. 27.—In an interview regarding the conferences at Mukden between Ataman Semenoff and General Chang Tso-lin, General Tachibana, the new Commander-in-Chief in Siberia, stated that he was not aware that any special agreement had been concluded, but if so, the Japanese Command was not involved in it.

Regarding Sino-Japanese cooperation with Semenoff against the Bolsheviks, he stated that he had made no arrangements. He was not aware that Japanese policy was dependent on Chang Tso-lin's attitude.

NO COMMENT ON SIBERIA

Regarding the rumored change of Japanese policy in Siberia, he was unable to make any statement before assuming his post.

Regarding the change in Chinese policy towards the Soviet he was not aware that Chang Tso-lin was at the head of the Chinese anti-Bolshevik organisation, but he was convinced that he was not sympathetic toward Bolshevism.

Peking, Jan. 28.—The Waichiaopu's and Japanese Legation's Notes containing the official cancellation of the Sino-Japanese Military Pact were exchanged this afternoon.

AMERICAN CONSUL AT VLADIVOSTOK ISSUES DENIAL

United States Has Not Asked Any Government To Aid In Protecting Citizens

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, Jan. 27.—The United States Consul here has published the following announcement:

"The United States Government has not requested any Government to render its representatives, or local authorities, assistance in protecting the lives and property of Americans in Siberia and has not expected such.

"The United States Government is not aware that any other Government has made such a request or expected such assistance or desired to confer on any Government a mandate to protect the interests of other nationalities or assume any control over the persons or property of other nationalities in Siberia."

(Note: Consul General McGowan evidently has issued the above in refutation of the statement of Baron Tanaka, the Japanese Minister of War, who, addressing the Diet, declared that the Japanese were policing Vladivostok with the consent and at the request of the Consular body there.)

LANGDON'S BODY LANDED; TO BE SENT TO MANILA FEB. 1

The casket containing the body of Lieutenant Warren H. Langdon was brought ashore from the cruiser New Orleans yesterday and taken in charge by the U.S. Navy pay office. It will be shipped to Manila on February 5 for return to America.

(Japan News Agency)

Vladivostok, Jan. 19.—The memorial service in honor of the late Lieutenant Langdon, U.S.N., was held in the gymnasium of the Y.M.C.A. adjoining the wharf at which the cruiser Albany lies, on January 18, at 2 p.m. The coffin was covered with floral offerings among them being wreaths pre-

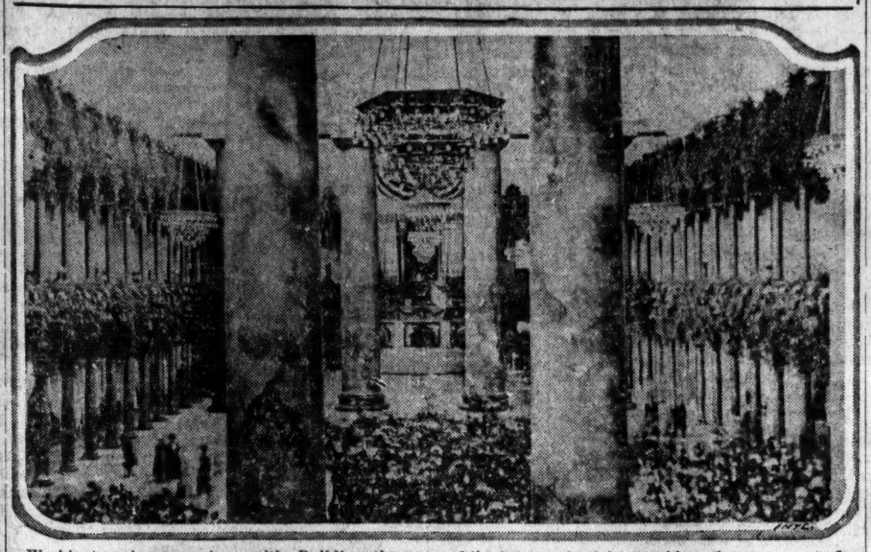
Where Harding Inaugural Ball Will Be Held



Washington is preparing with interest for the Harding inauguration ball which, no doubt, will be held in the beautiful Pension Office Building, the scene of the inaugural balls from President Cleveland's, in 1885, to President Taft's, in 1909. In the center of the building are eight marble columns seventy-five feet high. The floor is of tile. The illustration shows a scene at the Taft inaugural ball in the Pension Building in 1909.

DATE OF HEARING FOR LIBEL ACTION IS SET BY COURT

Suit Against Russian Volunteer Fleet Head Comes Up Next Friday

The criminal libel action brought against Captain D. A. Lukhmanoff, managing director of the Russian Volunteer Fleet's Vladivostok Administration, by one Leonid Federovitch Kompanion, following an article appearing in a local Russian newspaper on January 23 will be heard next Friday in the Mixed Court by an Assess or who is to be named by the Senior Consul. The ruling was made yesterday when the case came up before British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li.

A subpoena duces tecum was also ordered to issue for the editor of the Shanghai Life, which printed the article in question, directing him to bring into Court the manuScript of the article.

Mr. Sterling Fessenden appeared for the defense and Mr. MacKean for the prosecution. The latter asked for a remand for the case to be heard by the Senior Consul's Assessor and requested the subpoena to be issued for the editor.

Mr. Fessenden said that his client was prepared to give reasonable bail and stated that he was the representative of the Russian Volunteer Fleet. Bail was fixed at $500 cash.

The charge is as follows:

Arrested on a Mixed Court warrant for that he, the said Dimitri Lukhmanoff, publicly insulted Leonid Fedorovitch Kompanion, in that he stated and caused to be stated in an article in the Shanghai Life, a Russian newspaper registered at the Chinese Post Office and published at 12 Boone Road, Shanghai, in the issue of that newspaper, No. 377 of 23rd January, 1921, of and concerning the said Leonid Fedorovitch Kompanion, the false and malicious statements namely:

That he with one N. D. Fedoroff had "begun to supply slaves to the Carribbee Islands," that the complainant and other persons are "hoping to establish this business on a large scale," and that he was "engaged in a morally shameful trip," that he was engaged in "piracy," that he and the others are simply "adventurers and cheats," that he is engaged in "blackmail," as appears from a copy of the said issue of "Shanghai Life."

JAPANESE YARDS LAY OFF WORKERS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, (by mail).—A Kobe despatch to the Kokumin states that the Mitsubishi Dockyard has decided to lay off some 250 workmen for an indefinite period, with a promise, at the same time, to pay them 75 percent of their wages during the enforced holiday.

Since the business depression began, adds the message, there have been various rumors afloat, that the company had decided to discharge many employes, but none have so far been discharged. The present lay off on part pay is regarded as a temporary but inevitable measure for the adjustment necessitated by present business conditions.

It is also reported that the Kawasaki Shipbuilding Company has dismissed three hundred workmen.

A.R. Hager Heads New Officers Of American University Club Here

C. T. Wang, Julean Arnold, Judge Lobingier Bishop Birnie, Captain Wood And Dr. P. W. Kuo Are Speakers At Annual Meeting Of Collegians

Eloquent speeches, snappy and humorous talks, college songs and yells featured the annual banquet and election of officers of the American University Club last night at the Union Club. Mr. George A. Fitch presided and the principal addresses were delivered by Dr. C. T. Wang, Chinese envoy to Versailles, and Mr. Julean Arnold, United States Commercial Attache.

Judge Charles S. Lobingier, Bishop Birnie of the Northern Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. P. W. Kuo, President of the Nanking Normal College, Captain Duncan Wood, Commander of the United States Yangtsze Patrol and all the incoming officers also gave short talks.

NEW OFFICERS

The officers of the club for the ensuing yearr elected at the meeting were: President, Mr. A. R. Hager; Vice-President, Dr. C. T. Wang; Secretary, Prof. H. B. Sailor; Assistant-Secretary, Mr. Jabin Hsu of THE CHINA PRESS and Treasurer, Mr. Paul M. Anderson.

Judge Lobingier in his remarks, attributed the large attendance at the banquet, which numbered some 150, to the great influx of men and women into American universities. He said it was a great satisfaction to be with alumni of institutions of the same country who think in the same terms and have the same high ideals.

DR. KUO SPEAKS

Dr. Kuo traced the history and development of the "University Movement" in China and told of the glowing desire of the Chinese for higher education. He gave a detailed description of the proposed National South Eastern University, which is the second national university in China, the first being the Peking Government University.

This university, he said, would be developed out of the present Nanking Normal College. It is expected that the College of Commerce will be established in Shanghai, for which the administration has the co-operation of the local Chinese General Chamber of Commerce. It will have a museum, a library, an evening school and several other features. It will make use of the premises of the present International Institute through the courtesy of Mr. Y. C. Tong.

Dr. Kuo also stated that some of the departments of the university will be located in Hangchow in compliance with the request of the Chekiang educational authorities. He concluded by asking the co-operation of the club in supporting the new scheme.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Captain Wood described the difference between Shanghai 20 years when he last visited here and the Shanghai of today.

Bishop Bernie expressed surprise at the wonderful development in China, especially in the city of Shanghai.

Mr. Arnold gave one of his famous rapid-fire speeches in which he showed that the apparent conservantism of the Chinese people was not due to their fault but to their environment and stated that Americans would have been in the same position and doing the same thing had not their fore-fathers conceived their scientific ideas.

The speaker traced the development of education in China. He made certain concrete suggestion to the incoming committee as to how they could best serve the club.

Dr. Wang gave some plausible solutions of some of China's difficult problems. He disapproved of the general public's idea to disband the soldiers. Instead, he advocated their organisation for some constructive purposes such as road building, wheat growing and other industrial pursuits.

He advocated the division of power and functions between the Central and Provincial Governments and suggested that Peking should confine its work to foreign affairs, national defense, communications, laws and taxation and should leave all other functions to the states, which are in a better position to deal with their local problems.

He concluded by making an eloquent appeal for the support of the scheme of good road building in China, of which movement he is the head. He said that road construction is the beginning of all good things for the country, because, it "functions like the artery to the body politic, bringing all the nutrition to the system."

NEW MEMBERS

The following were elected to be honorary members of the club:

Charles R. Crane, American Minister to China; Frederick R. Stevens, Representative of the American Banks in the Chinese Consortium; Dr. W. W. Yen, Minister for Foreign Affairs; Captain Duncan Wood, Commander U. S. Yangtsze Patrol.

The report of the outgoing treasurer, Mr. T. C. Britton showed a cash balance in the bank of $676.24, while the report of the secretary, Mr. Don D. Patterson, showed that there were 368 members on the roll of the club.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Dr. Ely of St. John's University moved to tender a vote of thanks to the retiring officers which was unanimously passed.

BANKING REPORT ISSUED IN TOKIO

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, (by mail.)—According to the returns of the Bank of Japan, appearing in the Chuo, the total capital invested in banking establishments during the month of December last aggregated Y.101,550,000. This shows a decrease by some Y.18,000,000 as compared with the figures for the preceding month.

The gross total of the banking capital invested during the year 1920 aggregated Y.5,103,000,000, which indicated an increase by approximately Y.1,000,000,000 as against the returns for the preceding year.

OUTCOME OF CONFERENCE AT PARIS IS UNCERTAIN

London Less Optimistic And Surprised By New French Proposals

EXPERTS AT WORK

Views Given At Session By Lloyd George And M. Briand

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 28.—The optimism regarding the outcome of the Paris Conference is now waning. Considerable surprise is expressed in London at the new French proposals.

It is pointed out that, whereas on the most optimistic estimate the German exports amount to seventeen thousand million gold marks annually, M. Doumer's suggestion would involve 42 annual payments of twelve thousand millions.

The basis on which the committee of experts will proceed will be the compromise proposals put forward by Belgium, viz., to fix the amount of these annual payments, which may be increased according to Germany's capacity to pay, without determining the number of annual payments.

VIEWS GIVEN

Paris, Jan. 28.—Yesterday afternoon's sitting of the Allied Conference produced speeches by Mr. Lloyd George and M. Briand, who presented the respective British and French views on the reparations question.

Mr. Lloyd George dwelt on Great Britain's desire, equal with that of the other Allies, to make Germany pay to the last farthing, but he pointed out the uselessness of any attempt to expect more than circumstances would enable Germany to pay.

M. Briand disagreed with the suggestion that the Boulogne Conference had reached a definite agreement as regards the extent and manner of Germany's capacity to pay. The French, he said, desired the Reparations Commission to fix the total amount of the Allies' claim for, even if it produced an apparently extravagant total, France could always make sacrifices.

ALLIES ARE UNITED

Mr. Lloyd George said the Allies meant to stand together until reparation had been made. He referred to the varying claims of Great Britain and France to consideration—the former through bearing the greatest financial burdens of the war, and the latter owing to her human losses, for which it was absolutely admitted that she had the first claim on the German payments.

The British Premier showed how Germany could pay easily within her own borders, but could not export her forests, while if the Allies seized the railways and doubled the charges they would be paid in paper marks which were useless outside the German frontiers. Germany could only pay by exports, and if her imports were restricted too much she would be unable to find the necessary raw materials for manufacture.

URGES SPEEDY DECISION

Mr. Lloyd George further expressed his willingness that the agreements reached at Boulogne and Spa and by the experts sitting in Brussels should be replaced by new proposals, but he strongly deprecated an adjournment of the Conference, because the Allies and the world generally urgently wanted a definite statement. A speedy settlement was more important than an ideal one.

He regarded M. Doumer's scheme as morally justifiable but impracticable. The Allies, he contended, must agree on Germany's capacity and use all their authority to try and compel Germany to put herself in a position to pay. Without doing so her revenue did not approximate the expenditure, but she was not imposing taxation to anything like the same extent as the Allies, and the latter must see that Germany at least did so.

ATTITUDE OF FRENCH

M. Briand, who followed, said French public opinion could not accept an a priori argument that the treaty was impossible of fulfilment. The experts said that the present was an unfortunate moment to fix the maximum amount of reparation, but French opinion was not prepared to abate its expectations to the limits of the Boulogne agreement without further proof of facts. France favored annual payments for three or four years, but she insisted that if Germany's prosperity increased, France should share in the results within the treaty limits.

He pointed out that the difference between the sixty-five thousand million francs to be received by France under the Boulogne agreement and the twenty-five thousand million which constituted her foreign debt would not suffice to repair her devastated regions.

WANTS ANNUAL PAYMENTS

M. Briand argued that the experts could estimate Germany's present capacity to pay, but not her future capacity. He urged the fixing of annual payments now, and a reconsideration of the total liabilities at a later conference.

The Belgian representatives yesterday sought to find a compromise between the British and French views, but doubt was expressed as to whether an agreement would be reached by the week-end. Otherwise, it is expected that a further conference of experts will be held in Brussels, and a definite decision given on their report by an Allied Conference to be held in London during next month.

OUTCOME DOUBTFUL

Paris, Jan 27.—There was no morning session of the Interallied Conference today, but a number of private conversations occurred. The opinion is generally expressed that the British delegation will be able to depart on Sunday. The utmost secrecy continues with regard to the progress of the Conference. It is thought unlikely that anything very definite respecting reparations will be decided unless some new scheme is evolved.

In the course of the long afternoon sitting of the Interallied Conference, it was decided to appoint a committee of experts to investigate certain aspects of the reparations question, before the subject is finally dealt with. The Committee will report tomorrow. Mr. Kengo Mori, Financial Attache to the Japanese Embassy at London will represent Japan on the committee.

TURKEY TO ATTEND

London, Jan. 27.—Reuter learns that Turkey has signified her willingness to attend the Conference shortly to be held at London, with a view to reaching a settlement on Near Eastern questions.

An Athens despatch states that the Premier, M. Rhallys, will represent Greece at the same Conference.

The invitation has created the most favorable impression in Constantinople.

London, January 27.—Apropos of the present discussions in Paris on reparations, considerable interest attaches to a report published by the Department of Overseas Trade on the industrial and economic situation in Germany, and prepared by Lieut. Col. J. W. F. Thelwall, Commercial Secretary to the British Embassy in Berlin.

This report affords striking evidence of the improvements which have taken place in all departments of life in Germany, except that of State finance. It expresses the opinion, however, that the danger of bankruptcy is unlikely to materialise. The report pays tribute to "the characteristic skill with which industrial concerns have not only survived the most trying times, but made good business out of them, and paid substantial dividends."

The principal features of last year's industrial activity was the co-operation with foreign groups and combines within the country, particularly those concerned with iron, steel, coal and chemicals.

SHOOTS UP TOWN IN WESTERN STYLE FROM HIS RICSHA

Ship's Officer Terrorises Hongkew And Is Gathered In By Police

Cruising along Minghong Road with a 45 calibre revolver in either hand blazing away in good old wild western style, with a casual shot at a Chinese Constable, was what the police credited to Vincent W. Dawson, senior third officer of the B. I. steamer Takada when he appeared before Magistrate G. W. King in the British Police Court yesterday.

Chief Inspector Bourke, of Hongkow Station, who prosecuted, said that Dawson had engaged a ricsha outside the Cafe Parisien early in the morning and had fired a number of shots as he rode along. When arrested two revolvers, with live and used shells in them, were found on him.

Sub-Inspector Dunne said that the report was made to the station at about 3 a.m. by an excited Chinese Constable who said that a foreigner was shooting things up in Minghong Road. He took his own revolver and rushed off, gathering up other policemen as he went. Overtaking the defendant he covered him and searched him, finding a 45 calibre Webley revolver with a live shell and an empty one in the chambers. A further search at the station revealed another weapon of similar size and make, unloaded. The barrel of the first revolver showed indications of being recently fired. The defendant was drunk and had said that the weapons were not his and must have been placed in his pockets. They bore the name of his ship.

In Court the defendant said that he was not in the habit of getting drunk but that he must have been drunk at the time of the shooting as he remembered nothing of it.

The defendant was remanded in custody until today.

Mixed Court Jottings

A shroff of the China Express Company was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment yesterday for embezzling $1,500 received for an express money order. It was shown in the evidence that the shroff received the money for an order on Hsuchowfu last Sunday. He told the purchaser that as it was Sunday a receipt could not be issued until the following day. The shroff then disappeared, but with plenty of money in his pockets the lure of the bright lights smote him and he was discovered at the New World Thursday by another of the company's employes who had been sent to look for him. The police found $600 in notes in the absconder's lodgings and a quantity of clothing and other property which he had bought with the money. The money found was ordered paid over to the complainants and the property will be turned over to accused's guaranter, who must make good the rest of the company's loss.

A former employe of the China United Assurance Company named Loh Chien-zu appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday on the charge of falsely representing himself to be agent of the company at Taichong, near Soochow, and collecting Tls. 429.20 by issuing forged receipts. He had not been employed by the company since 1919. At the request of Detective Sergeant Kilkenny the case was remanded for one week and a warrant was ordered to issue for the arrest of one Yao Yu-lan, alleged to have been an accomplice. The Court raised the point that it might not have jurisdiction but the police submitted that accused had been engaged from the head offices of the company here, had signed his agreement here and that the Taichong authorities, who handed the prisoner over, had no objection to the case being tried in Shanghai.

Army And Navy Club Building To Be One Of Finest In Tokio

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, (by mail).—The Navy and Army Club building will shortly be erected for the benefit of the officers of the Japanese Navy and Army. According to the Kokumin, the building will be one of the finest in Tokio.

The plan was laid down several years ago, when the Emperior donated Y.300,000 towards the required funds, but the construction of the club has been postponed until now, chiefly for the lack of a suitable site.

Milner And Churchill Remain In Office Till Lloyd George Returns

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 27.—Reuter learns that Lord Milner will continue at the Colonel Office till the end of the second week in February. Meanwhile, Mr. Winston Churchill remains at the War Office, to which no appointment is likely to be made until Mr. Lloyd George returns from Paris.

The suggestion made in a morning paper that Lt.-Col. Amery, Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, was undesirous of serving under Mr. Churchill in the Colonial Office, is discredited in well-informed quarters.

R34 Blown To Sea But Is Returning

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 28.—Owing to a bad landing at midnight having damaged the engines and propellers of the airship R 34, (which made the famous double flight across the Atlantic) when she ascended again she was blown out over the North Sea by a strong wind, as far as a hundred miles east-north-east of Spurn Point, on the Yorkshire Coast. Two destroyers were despatched to assist her, and a wireless message from one of them reports that the airship is now returning to her base at slow speed, without having sustained any casualties, and has already reached the coast of Lincolnshire.

RENTAL QUESTION CAUSE OF ACTION IN BRITISH COURT

J. P. Bisset And Co. Sue J. T. Hammond For Re-entry To Property

The question of high rents and premiums for tenants' leases was brought up in the British Supreme Court yesterday during the course of a suit brought by Messrs. J. P. Bisset and Co. against Mr. J. T. Hammond for re-entry to property at 20 Yates Road leased to the defendant.

The plaintiffs' statement of claim alleges breach of agreement through defendant's having persistently relet to tenants without the written consent of plaintiffs and further that the defendant refused to comply with written instructions to terminate the underlettings in dispute.

The statement of defense denies any breach and contends that even if there had been such the plaintiffs waived it by accepting the rental under the lease. The defense also contends that the lease was made with Mrs. Moutrie and that the plaintiffs, who signed as her agent, cannot bring action. The case is being heard by Judge Skinner Turner and Mr. Reader Harris appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. H. Lipson-Ward for the defendant.

The comments on sub-rentals came during the cross-examination of Mr. A. H. Hatherly of Messrs. Bisset and Co. The witness stated that he had reason to believe the terms of sub-letting were exorbitant and terms they should not agree to. He referred to premiums. Counsel submitted that house-owners usually charged as highly as they could and took premiums if they could.

"Not to my knowledge," said the witness.

"In Shanghai today when high rents are being paid?" queried Mr. Ward. "Come now, Mr. Hatherly, you are living here and know the conditions."

"There is a limit," said the witness.

"I am glad of that," rejoined counsel. "We are all glad. Have we reached it yet?"

"That I cannot tell you," admitted Mr. Hatherly.

The witness maintained that it was not recognised business to accept premiums and said he understood the premium paid in this case was a big one.

Several other witnesses were heard and then counsel addressed the Court on the legal questions involved. There will be further argument today.

Chinese Crew Tricks Master Of Venezuela On Day Set For His Wedding

Orientals Fill Chest In Captain Nelson's Cabin With Liquor Despite Customs Seals; Seaman Smuggles Pearls, Is Charge

Startling events fast succeeded unexpected happenings when the Pacific Mail liner Venezuela which arrives here today reached San Francisco on her last voyage from this port

The unusual occurrences varied from the marriage of the captain, Henry Nelson, to the alleged smuggling of pearls and the seizure of a considerable supply of whiskey that had been taken into port by members of the chew, the information shows. One of the most unexpected of the surprises was the discovery of a trick door in a chest in the captain's cabin, which members of the crew had filled with whiskey without the master's knowledge and without breaking the seals placed on the box by customs inspectors.

BRIDE ACCOMPANIES CAPTAIN

Captain Nelson and Miss March Alkire of 1020 Post street, San Francisco, were married at the conclusion of the last trip by Judge Mogan.

After docking in San Francisco the last voyage, the surveyor of customs officers stopped Benjamin W. Benjamin, a member of the crew, as he was leaving the ship with his bag. In a shoe the officers found two pearl necklaces and a valuable string of ivory beads.

When the Venezuela put into port the officers sealed all declared liquors, four bottles of whiskey, in a chest in Captain Nelson's cabin. They waited until the vessel docked and began their usual search for narcotics and undeclared valuables.

MAGIC CHEST DISCOVERED

In the engineer's room six bottles of whiskey were seized. In the quarters of the quartermaster four more bottles were added to the six. From rooms occupied by Chinese members of the crew the officers took 142 jars of Chinese spirits, 10 jugs of Oriental liquor and 13 bottles of whiskey.

Following this reward of their efforts, the inspectors started afresh in their search. Unsealing the chest in the captain's cabin, they found the magic receptacle filled to capacity with whiskey. Captain Nelson, in the meantime, was absent to be married, and was much surprised when the officers showed him a secret door the Chinese had used to place the 20 bottles of whiskey in the chest.

Melbourne Fire Causes Huge Loss

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, Jan. 27.—It is estimated that damage to the extent of a quarter of a million sterling was caused by a fire at the Port Pirie Smelting Works. Six hundred persons have been thrown out of work, and the works have been closed indefinitely. The fire may entail cessation of operations at the Broken Hill mines.

AERODROME SITE SELECTED HERE FOR MAIL LINE

Planes For Peking Shanghai Service To Land On Hungjao Road Extension

The commission from Peking which is arranging the Peking-Shanghai air service has selected a lot at the end of Hungjao Road Extension as a suitable place for the erection of the Shanghai aerodrome. The lot covers land from two cities, Shanghai and Tsingpu. The Shanghai portion measures about 300 mow, while the Tsingpu share is less than 100 mow.

Colonel Tcheng Hung will return to Shanghai today to complete the arrangements with the local authorities for the acquisition of the land. Colonel F. V. Holt is now in Tsinanfu, Shantung to look over several sites there. Mr. Jabin Hsu, the local commissioner of aeronautics, has been appointed to serve on the commission concurrently.

Tenders have already been invited to erect certain buildings on the site. They will be publicly opened at the office of the commissioner, 8 Peking Road, on February 4. It is understood that the department will give only three months within which contractors are to complete the construction work.

Measurement of the site will begin by the staff of the local Chinese Land Office on next Monday morning. The work will take about ten days. The site is at present owned jointly by some 80 farmers.

Winston Churchill Inherits Fortune

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 28.—The Daily Mail makes the announcement that Mr. Winston Churchill inherits a fortune from the late Lord Herbert Vane-Tempest, who was killed in the recent Welsh railway disaster.

The latter's property includes an estate in Ireland from which the annual income is some thousands of pounds. The opinion is expressed that this fortune may influence Mr. Winston Churchill's future career.

Plan To Send German Teachers Into Dutch East Indies Opposed

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 28.—According to the Amsterdam correspondent of the Morning Post, the news that the Dutch Government contemplates sending 200 German teachers to the Dutch East Indies has produced some uneasiness, and is severely criticised in the press.

Writing to the Telegraaf, Doctor Devries-Feyens remarks that "two hundred German teachers would mean after 20 years eight hundred German men, and therefore as many propagandists of Pan-German thought in the Dutch Colonies." He declares that Germany's desire for colonies is as keen as ever.

A member of the Second Chamber has requested an explanation as to the Government's motives in this matter.

How Flies Spread Disease

The Menace of the Deadly Fly

Do you know that if flies were gifted with powers of reasoning and organisation they could, by more systematic distribution of the germs they carry, almost exterminate the human race?

Each year, ten to fifteen thousand children alone are carried off by typhoid and diarrhoea which flies spread, and if the annual total number of illnesses and deaths caused by flies were available the figure would be appalling.

Merely to kill flies on sight is ineffectual—they breed hundreds of times more rapidly than you can kill them. The remedy lies in two ways—protect yourself against them, prevent them breeding. You can do both with Milton.

Six ways of using Milton to Fight the Fly Peril

1 Use Milton on your food. Before cooking wash all fresh meat, poultry, fish, etc., or soak vegetables in water to which Milton has been added in proportion of a tablespoonful to a pint. This removes all danger of infection. Milton does not add the slightest smell or taste.

2 Spray a Milton solution around the home. This kills all germs and disolves fly-blow.

3 Spray Milton into dark corners and crevices, sprinkle it on garbage, on manure heaps, in dustbins. These are places where flies lay their eggs, but Milton will prevent them hatching.

4 Sterilise feeding bottles and milk receptacles with Milton, and remove danger from this source.

5 Apply Milton to all cuts and abrasions. Milton sterilises the wounds and promotes rapid healing.

6 Use Milton as a daily mouthwash and gargle. This is an excellent safeguard against germs which enter the body through the mouth.

All the above uses of Milton, and scores of others, are fully described in the Booklet attached to each bottle. Look for this Booklet when buying.

Does 101 Thing's

MILTON

fights the fly peril in the two most effective ways that science has yet devised. Milton does not prevent flies from entering your home, but it does afford you positive protection against their danger. Milton does not kill flies, but it does stop them breeding and multiplying, prevents them being born.

Milton is non-poisonous, non-irritant and non-inflammable. It can be used freely with perfect safety; no danger to yourself, your children, your pets.

SOLD IN 2 SIZES—8 OUNCES and 20 OUNCES — EACH MAKES GALLONS. Take MILTON in your home. Get it of your Chemist or Grocer. If he does not stock MILTON write Probst, Hanbury & Co. Ltd., 10 Nanking Road, Shanghai.

TRAIN DISASTER IN NORTH WALES IS TRAGIC SECNE

Engines Are Piled Upon Each Other And Wreckage Covers Hundred And Fifty Yards

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 27.—Details of the terrible disaster in North Wales are coming in slowly. The scene of confusion is indescribable, the tangled heap of wreckage stretching 150 yards.

The engines are piled up upon each other while the two front coaches of the express lie on their sides with a coach of the local train crushed beneath. It was necessary to chop up three coaches to extricate the dead and injured.

Eye-witnesses say that the impact as the engines crashed was terrific. The third through coach to Paddington, of the express, was smashed into splinters, and all but one of the passengers in it killed.

Lord Herbert Vane-Tempest had both his legs amputated at Newton Infirmary before he succumbed to his injuries. The death-roll includes two Harrovians returning to school.

A man who had missed his own compartment by getting on a rear coach, was found on the scene in a demented condition, exclaiming: "My wife! My wife! My wife is there killed in the train!"

The cause of the smash is being investigated. The slow local train usually waits on a loopline at Abermule station to allow the express to pass, but, yesterday the former, for some unknown reason, was allowed to continue. It was proceeding up an incline when the express rounded a bend at thirty miles an hour.

The driver of the express did not see the local train, owing to the curve, until he was within a hundred yards of it. He then whistled and jammed on the brakes. The fireman jumped on one side and fell in a hedge. The driver, who jumped out on the other side, fell into a hollow and a carriage was overturned upon him, but he was rescued by the fireman.

Think Gambling Ring Is Operating Here

Fifty-four Chinese Caught In Raid Are Fined

Evidence was brought out in the Mixed Court yesterday that there is a well organised gamblers' ring which conducts public gambling on a large scale in the Settlement by constantly changing the scene of operations and paying scapegoats who serve out prison sentences when the police swoop down upon the play.

The occasion was the trial of 53 men and one woman seized in a raid made by Inspector Kerrigan and three other foreign officers upon the premises at 296 Pakhoi Road Thursday night.

Inspector Kerrigan said that there was evidently a gamblers' combination at work, constantly shifting the location of the play. When the prisoners were taken to the station 35 of them were able to produce bail of $20 immediately and arrangements for bail for the remainder had been made within half an hour. One of the men voluntarily admitted that he was the tenant of the place. He was supposed to receive $1 a day for his time in jail.

The accused were fined $5 each, four who failed to appear forfeiting their bail.

RECS PICKED TO WIN TODAY; POLICE VS NAVY

Recreation Club "A" Football Eleven Figured To Beat S.F.C. In Skottowe Cup Series

GAMES IN SECOND LEAGUE

Matches Today Have Important Bearing On Standing Of Teams In Division

There is a full bill for this afternoon and the Race Course grounds will provide some interesting matches. The chief focus of excitement will be the match between the Football Club and the Recs. After the Club's showing against the Recs "B" team last Saturday, it does not look as if they would survive, but the Club certainly can play very much better football and they can be relied upon to do so in this important fixture. If rumor is correct the Recs are very unfortunate in having to play without A. Sofoulis, who is under medical orders to leave football alone for a while. The Recs are used to him and his absence cannot but disorganise their forward line.

The other game will be worth watching also, it will not be a joyride for either team. The Police may be relied on to play hard fast football and their forward line has shown signs of improvement lately. The Navy have been practising this week and mean to figure in the final; in view of their physical fitness and bustling tactics, they are a team well calculated to upset a cleverer combination and get home in the second half.

SECOND LEAGUE

Several second league matches will be important from their bearing on the standing of the teams at present.

The Football Club have taken 24 points from seven games, their opponents, the Customs have nine points from six games, while the Recs and Engineers both have nine points each the former from five games, the latter from eight—plenty of possibilities for the Recs, while the Engineers are out to win their fifth successive victory, so there will be a considerable amount of keenness in these two games. Of the remaining six teams, only the Public School have any hope of finishing near the top, as they have only played four games and own six points.

The principal fixture will be played on the Police Ground this afternoon, commencing at 2:45 o'clock.

The Football Club's team against the Recs will consist of Messrs. A. McLean, G. F. Forshaw, P. Isherwood, W. J. Brown, F. Shafferm, M. Seredkin, A. Deer, V. B. Glover, J. Robertson, L. J. Coulcher and A. H. Leslie.

Reserves: Messrs. E. T. Nash, B. Lawrie Smith and C. K. Smith. Referee: Mr. Boyling. Linesman: S. Starling.

THE BRIDGE PEST IS WORST OF LOT; DO YOU KNOW HIM?

Crab Who Lost That Last Rubber Or Had Bad Cards Wins Cut Glass Shoe Laces

Every game has its grumblers, but Auction Bridge seems to have more than its fair share. They stop you in the street or in the club when you are hungry, and after hurriedly inquiring after your health, and without waiting for a reply, proceed to pour forth their woes.

"Did you ever know such bad luck as this?"—they begin, and go on to give details of good hands upon which they have gone down badly.

Or they come up mysteriously and say "I shall never play with Mr. 'A' or Col. 'B' again. Do you know what he did last night?. . . ."

Or they produce a card showing a long sequence of losing rubbers. "I give you my word I never hold a good hand these days. I get all the two's and three's in the pack," . . . and so on and so forth.

In the card-room they are still more trying. They sigh and groan and put on the injured martyr air. Before they look at their cards they are complaining, and every time anything goes wrong they say, "Just my luck!"

Many of them seem to imagine that they have a sort of divine right to hold good cards, and when they fail to do so they resent it as inexplicable oversight on the part of Providence.

It is so particularly cheering when you sit down at the beginning of a rubber with a partner for him to say: "I'm in the most awful luck, so go slow and pray don't rely upon me when you are declaring."

Or, "Partner, do you remember that awful rubber we had three weeks ago? I hope we shan't lose another like it."

The Bridge "grouser" ought to be taken by the hand and gently, but firmly, given a little free speech.

"Look here," I would say to him, "do you not realise that nobody here really cares about your bad luck or your card troubles? The wife of your bosom or the woman who loves you best in the world may, perhaps, be expected to evince a little mild interest in hearing that you have lost 17 rubbers running or how Snooks let you down four weeks ago. But no one else wants to hear these things. Everybody has his bad run at cards and everybody has his unmerited misfortunes. So leave it at that."

As a matter of fact, in many instances the "grouser" is responsible for his own woes. What he attributes to bad luck is often bad play, but he does not realise it.—(Daily Mail).

Camp Favors Professional Football

Thinks It Will Prove Success

Graduates Will Get Chance To Play

Walter Camp, dean of football, has put the stamp of approval on the professional game, saying:

"I am practically satisfied that professional football will be a success. We must prepare for it. We must define its position and place in the athletic curriculum of the Nation. Once a perspective is gained by the professional player, and I believe it will be gained, then we may look for the professional game to grow and expand."

All this is a bit sensational coming from Camp. He continues; "I have studied the professional football situation and I am convinced it is with us to stay. There is no reason why it should fail, unless it be that college stars desire to quit the game immediately after the close of their college careers. This seems unlikely in view of the fact that most men graduate from school when they are anywhere from 22 to 25 years of age.

"The football ability of a man does not cease to exist at that age. The man himself, in most cases, is unwilling that his career be terminated at such an age in life when really he is at his best in so far as athletics are concerned. For these reasons and a number of others, the men still want to play the game. The more of these men who continue in the game as professionals, the finer becomes the brand of football offered by the professional teams. The finer the brand of football offered the public, the larger the crowd that will attend games.

"This idea, on the part of the colleges, that forbidding graduates to play professional football under pain of losing letters awarded them for athletic service rendered while members of athletic teams of their alma mater, is silly. What does it accomplish? Everyone knows, for instance, that Jim Thorpe played at Carlisle and was an all-American man. What purpose would be served by Carlisle taking away from Thorpe the letter he earned while at school? It would be nothing but a silly procedure, for the whole world knows, as a matter of fact, that Thorpe won his letter at Carlisle.

"In the case of other star players it would be the same. In this case something that stands as a matter of fact cannot at some future date be other than a fact. Then, too, has the alma mater of an athlete any right to halt the athletic career of her graduates? If men at 25 or 26 desire to play football, and the keener and better teams are those of professional standing, what is wrong with the player offering himself as a candidate for these teams? As near as I can see there is nothing in the world that will prevent the youth of our land from playing professional football after graduation from college, if they desire to play. As a matter of fact, I believe that the money involved really is of secondary importance to the young man who loves the game."

January Competition

The January revolver competition of the Shanghai Miniature Rifle and Revolver Club for the Experts medal and bar will close Monday evening. The competition calls for 20 shots to be fired at 15, 20 and 25 yards. The time limit is five minutes. Targets will be used with two-inch inner and four-inch outer bulls-eye.

It is hoped that more of the members will enter this useful competitiot, as it teaches how to use the revolver quickly and accurately.

PORTER WINS FROM CAMPOS IN EASY STYLE

Champion Moves Into Semi-final By Victory At Marine Engineers Institute

SCORE IS 750 TO 591

Porter In Rare Form With Runs Of 69 And 72; Has Average Of 10.8

C. W. Porter last night entered the semi-finals of the amateur billiards championship and the entrance was an impressive one. He made 750 points in a little over two hours, scored an average of 10.8, by far the best recorded in the tournament to date, and registered breaks of 69 and 72. Porter defeated J. P. Campos at the Marine Engineers Institute. Campos scored 591.

Punctuated by frequent remarkable shots by both players the match was a treat for the big crowd that turned out to get a look at the title holder who is due to retain his crown. Against a more inferior player Campos would have shone brightly but Porter was too good.

Time and again Campos made seemingly impossible shots and his average, 8, gives a line on the form he displayed.

Campos' high breaks were 52, 44 and 42.

STORMES vs. PHILLIPS

But one match remains to be played in the second round and although this has been set for Tuesday it is doubtful whether or not it will be played then. R. P. Phillips is in the hospital and hopes to be able to play. His opponent is G. B. Stormes. If Phillips is unable to play he will be scratched and Stormes will thus enter the semi-final without having played a match.

Name Prominent Officials To Push Peking Compaign For Famine Relief Funds

Government Chiefs, Bankers And Foreigners To Aid In Drive; No Definite Goal Set

GRAIN PROSPECTS GOOD

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Peking, January 27.—After three days of thawing, during which there had been much sickness and epidemics of influenza, mastoiditis and small pox which were caused by the sudden warming, the weather here today suddenly turned cold again.

The snowfall encourages the grain prospects of the winter in North China, where without much more snow, a second year of famine is threatened.

NOTED WRITER COMING

Eleanor Eagan, the noted writer, is coming to Peking via Shanghai on Sunday. Plans have been formulated for her to take a tour of inspection through the famine area immediately.

AFTER NEW YEAR

While neither the exact date nor the financial goal was decided upon, the drive will continue for one week and will take place soon after the Chinese New Year and the goal is to be high. Amounts of $300,000 and $500,000 were suggested for Peking alone, all felt that the condition was so serious that no limit should be placed.

Suggestions were made for a ways and means committee to work out the campaign but these were referred to the Administrative Council of the Peking United International Famine Relief Committee, whose executive secretary outlined the plan at the invitation of Dr. Yen. It was agreed that the drive should be directed by the International Relief Societies.

The body which has undertaken to promote the campaign includs: Yen Hui-ch'ing, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Chou Tzu-ch'i, Minister of Finance; General Feng, Bank of China; Hsiung Hsiling; Yeh Kung-cho, Minister of Communications; Chang Chih-t'an, Minister of the Interior; Wu Shih-hsiang, Chief Secretary of President's Office; Wang Ta-hsieh; Chang Chia-ngao, Bank of China; Liang Shih-i, Bank of Communications; Tsai Ting-kan, Customs Bureau; Sun Pao-ch'i, Customs Bureau; P.K.C. Tyau, Board of Foreign Affairs; Liu Fang, Methodist Church; M. T. Liang, Tientsin Committee; Lou Tseng-hsiang, Government Famine Relief Bureau; Yun Pao-hsi, Government Famine Relief Bureau; Liou Shih-hsuan, Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs; Chou Chuan-ching, Board of Foreign Affairs; T. F. Huang, Board of Foreign Affairs; F. W. Stevens; Dr. G. Douglas Gray; S. M. Lucas; Mons. d'Hormon; S. Fudusawa; Sir Reginald Gamble; D. W. Edwards; R. R. Gailey; J. L. Childs.

It was also decided at this meeting to invite Mr. Yuan and Mr. Chou of the Peking Chamber of Commerce to join this group as it was felt their co-operation would be indispensible.

From the moment Dr. Yen concluded his opening address, there was a spirit of enthusiasm.

TIENTSIN CO-OPERATES

Prediction of a full national campaign was made by M. T. Liang representing the Tientsin committee.

The time of greatest suffering, Dr. Yen said, was rapidly approaching. Heretofore, the measures of relief have been somewhat scattered because of the many committees and societies that had been organised to carry on the work but it had all been good.

The time has now come for one great nation-wide drive for funds that this distress may be relieved," said Dr. Yen who then told how the various societies, each working in its own fiend, had done so much to save lives and prevent suffering.

"Everyone of them," he said, "has done a noble work but all had inadequate funds." All the people of China, he said, from the North, South, East and West, should unite against the famine as against a common foe, lay aside political differences or other dissentions and make famine relief their immediate task. Two reasons made this imperative, he explained. The increasing suffering and the fact that other nations who have been giving generously should know that China, too, gives generously and works industriously to relieve the situation.

He spoke of the fund now being raised in America, of the various funds being raised in England and told how the Japanese, especially the school children of that country, had recognised the seriousness of the situation and had sent funds for relief.

TSAI TIN-KAN SPEAKS

Organisation of the several famine relief organisations, their accomplishments and methods of administering to the sufferers, were reviewed by Admiral Tsai Ting-kan.

He described at length the work of the Peking, Tientsin, Shanghai, Hankow, Kaifeng, Tsinanfu and Taiyuanfu committees, told relief bodies would join in the closest harmony and co-operation, how they pooled their interests and divided their funds, each aiding the other and how between them, they had arranged to cover the entire famine field.

He said that the public spirited Chinese and foreign residents, the gentry, the Catholics, Protestants, Buddhists and all other organisations had banded together for the common good. All of these, he said, were working in harmony and close relationship with the government's famine relief bureau, through M. Andre d'Horman as special representative.

Speaking for the Tientsin committee, M.T. Liang said he could promise that his organisation would co-operate to the end and that Tientsin would undoubtedly conduct a simultaneous drive.

He predicted that all the other relief bodies would join in the movement. He suggested that great help could be obtained if the Central Government telegraphed local officials, asking their aid in the various areas and he asked also that the Minister of Agriculture be asked to request the special aid of the various agricultural, industrial, and commercial organisations.

Work of nationalising the campaign is already under way and the Peking United International Famine Relief committee has telegraphed the organisations in other districts, telling of the action taken at Dr. Yen's luncheon and asking them to take up the campaign in their territory.

Baron Goto Gives Tokio His Salary For Social Work

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, January 27.—The Mayor of Tokio, Baron Goto, yesterday formally offered to the City Council to contribute the whole of his annual salary, amounting to Y25,000 to the municipal funds for social work, and this has been accepted.

In making the offer he said that "he had no intention from the outset of using the salary for his private interests. His original intention was to decline the salary, but, as the law did not allow this, he had decided on making a contribution to the Municipality, which example he hoped would be followed by others, so that the Municipality might in future undertake very timely social work."

WILLIAM B. LEEDS SAILS TODAY ON THE VENEZUELA

Wealthy Son Of Princess Of Greece Goes To States For Operation

Taking many prominent local people as passengers the Pacific Mail liner Venezuela will sail today for San Francisco, via Japan ports and Honolulu. It is expected that the tender with incoming passengers will arrive about 9 o'clock this morning and the Victoria will leave the Customs Jetty taking passengers out to the ship at 4:30 p.m.

One of the Venezuela's passengers from here will be Mr. William B. Leeds, Jr., once known as the millionaire baby, who is the son of the Princess Christopher of Greece. He has been for some time a patient at Dr. Fearn's sanitarium, receiving attention for an infection of the arm contracted while tiger hunting in Sumatra and is going to New York for an operation.

Other passengers from Shanghai include Mr. H. C. Gulland, retiring manager of the International Banking Corporation here; the Rev. J. B. Nichols, Dean of the College of Theology of St. John's University; Mr. D. W. Murphy, marine superintendent of the Standard Oil Company; Mr. H. A. Allen, manager of the Chinese-American Bank; Mr. F. J. Deane, Tientsin Manager for Andersen, Meyer; Mr. W. A. Stehler, head of the printing department of the British-American Tobacco Company, and Mr. G. T. Hu, secretary to the Chinese Consul at Honolulu.

ARRIVES HERE TODAY

The Canadian Pacific Ocean Services steamer Empress of Japan also sails for America today, the tender leaving at 3 p.m.

The Empress of Russia bringing mail and passengers from Vancouver is due Sunday morning. The tender, with incoming passengers is expected to reach the Municipal jetty at about 9:30 o'clock and will be despatched down river with outgoing passengers at 3 p.m. the same day.

Among the passengers on the Russia are Imperial Potentate Garretson and an accompanying party of Shriners from Afifi Temple, Tacoma, who will proceed with the ship to Manila and will return here February 10 to hold a special ceremonial.

NILE ALSO ARRIVING

The Nile of the China Mail Steamship Company will arrive at Woosung tomorrow morning and will be dispatched to San Francisco tomorrow evening. The tender will probably leave the Customs Jetty at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The Nile will not call at Yokohama or Honolulu.

Utility Of Big Ships Is Being Considered By U.S. Navy Experts

Daniels Orders Report On Comparative Value Of Various Craft

(Reuter's Service)

London, January 27.—The controversy in the British press regarding the disputed utility of capital ships has found an echo in the United States, where the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Daniels, has instructed that a report be drawn up by experts upon the comparative values of capital ships, aircraft and submarines. The New York papers express the opinion that the report should be considered before Congress authorises any further construction of capital ships.

QUIET RESTORED IN MESOPOTAMIA

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 27.—It is officially announced that conditions in Mesopotamia are greatly improved, all the revolting tribes having submitted to the British garrison and surrendered large numbers of arms. Nearly the whole of the country is now quiescent.

In view of the improved situation, it will be possible to send away the Indian divisions which reinforced the garrison at the beginning of last autumn. Such progress has already been made with evacuation that it is expected the whole of the additional troops will be withdrawn by the end of March, and it is even possible that by then the garrison itself will be substantially reduced.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEPPA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. FERLER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD FARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. In fact, a more cordial endorsement of a medicine could not be given than is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. FARRIS, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

whether Oak is hard—he knows!

To appreciate to the full the value of Oak for flooring and panelling, it is necessary to know the conditions under which the tree itself comes to maturity.

It is the rule with trees that the faster they grow the poorer the quality of the timber they yield, and vice versa. The Oak is one of the slowest trees to grow, and is consequently the producer of the hardest and most valuable timber. The Oak is not found so much in the sheltered valleys, but on the bleak uplands, where from infancy it is exposed to the vicissitudes of wind and weather.

WE SUPPLY OAK FLOORING AND PLANKS FOR WAINSCOTING, ETC., KILN-DRIED AND GUARANTEED PRIME QUALITY.

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing, and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

Trial By Jury Question Raised In Furbush Case

similar treaties, Congress had reference to the common law in force in the several American Colonies at the date of the separation from the mother country and this included not only the ancient common law, the lex nop scripte, but also statutes which had theretofor been passed amendatory of or in aid of the common law."

Under this decision the common law of the United States as well as the old English statutes are applicable to this jurisdiction. That a man is entitled to a trial by jury under the common law cannot be questioned. The English saw the need of jury trials and forced King John at Runnymeade to enact the following:

"No freeman shall be taken or imprisoned or dis-seized or outlawed or exiled or in any way harmed—nor will we go upon or send upon him—save by the lawful judgment of his peers or by the law of the land" (Chapter 39, Magna Charta).

This old statute is a part of the common law and of the law of this jurisdiction. The defendant then is entitled to a trial by jury by virtue of the common law and the lack of such trial is, we submit, sufficient to set the conviction aside. The substance of the 39th Chapter of the Magna Charta was incorporated into the Constitution of the United States but this leads us to our second point, namely;

II

The defendant is entitled to a trial by jury by virtue of the constitution of the United States.

Article 6 of the Constitution provides:

"In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense."

The real question to determine is: "Does the Constitution of the United States apply to American citizens residing in China?"

In the Biddle Case which we have already referred to, the Court of Appeals said:

"The object of the treaty and the intention of Congress in creating the United States Court for China in so far as that Court is given criminal jurisdiction was to throw around American citizens residing or sojourning in China, and those charged with crime, the beneficient principles of the laws of the United States relating to the trial of persons charged with crime."

Can it be argued that the Constitution of the United States is not a part of the law of the United States? Such an argument is answered by the Constitution itself, which provides:

"This Constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made or which shall be made under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding."

Not only does the Constitution apply to China by virtue of the Biddle Case but by express enactment of Congress, which has provided:

"Sec. 1891. (Constitution and laws of United States made applicable to all the Territories.) The Constitution and all laws of the United States which are not locally inapplicable shall have the same force and effect within all the organized Territories, and in every Territory hereafter organized as elsewhere within the United States. (R.S.)"

The Constitution of the United States applies to the District of Columbia, and a person residing within the District of Columbia is entitled to a trial by jury.

Collan vs. Wilson (32 Law Ed. Page 883).

Capital Traction Co. vs. Hof (43 Law Ed. Page 373).

In the Collan Case the Supreme Court said:

"This recognition was demanded and secured for the benefit of all the people of the United States, as well those permanently or temporarily residing in the District of Columbia, as those residing or being in the several States. There is nothing in the history of the Constitution or of the original amendments, to justify the assertion that the people of this District may be lawfully deprived of the benefit of any of the constitutional guarantees of life, liberty, and property—especially of the privilege of trial by jury in criminal cases. In the draft of a Constitution reported by the Committee of Five on the 6th of August, 1787, in the convention which framed the Constitution, the 3rd section of Article 14 read that "the trial of all criminal offences (except in cases of impeachment) shall be in the States where they shall be committed; and shall be by jury."

1 Elliott's Deb. 2nd Ed. p. 362 percent.

But that article was, by unanimous vote, amended so as to read: "The trial of all crimes (except in cases of impeachment) shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, then the trial shall be at such place or places as the Legislature may direct." Id. p. 300. The object of this amending the section, Mr. Madison says, was "to provide for trial by jury of offenses committed out of any State." 3 Madison Papers, p. 144. In Reynolds vs. United States, 98 U. S. 184 (25:246), it was taken for granted that the Sixth Amendment of the Constitution secured to the people of the Territories the right of trial by jury in criminal prosecutions; and it had been previously held in Webster vs. Reid, 52 U. S. 11 Row. 437, 460 (13:761, 770), that the Seventh Amendment secured to them a like right in civil actions at common law. We cannot think that the people of this District have, in that regard, less rights than those accorded to the people of the Territories of the United States."

The Biddle Case extended the laws of the District of Columbia to China. If the laws of the District of Columbia apply to China and the Constitution is part of the law of the District of Columbia then the Constition must be a part of the law applicable to American citizens residing in China. To hold otherwise would mean that the Biddle Case is reversed. To hold that the Constitution of the United States does not apply to Americans in China is to hold that the laws of the District of Columbia do not apply. If the theory of the Biddle Case is wrong then the defendant is not entitled to a trial by jury, but if the theory of the Biddle Case is right, and we submit that it is right, then the defendant is entitled to a trial by jury as provided by the Constitution.

The Ross Case is no precedent for this jurisdiction. In that case the accused had been convicted of murder in the first degree, and his sentence of death commuted to life imprisonment. Habeas Corpus proceedings were taken out to release him from custody on the ground that he did not have a jury trial. The Supreme Court construed a statute relating to a Court which is now obsolete and no longer in existence. As a matter of fact the United States Court for China was not in existence at the time this decision was handed down; neither had the Biddle Case been decided; and neither had the laws of the District of Columbia been extended to China, either by enactment of Congress or by Judicial interpretation. Furthermore the treaty with Japan provided that "Americans . . . . . should be tried by the American Consul General or Consul" and thus expressly excluded a trial by jury.

Neither is the case of Dorr vs U. S. (49 Law Ed. p. 131) in point. In that case the Supreme Court held that a person residing in the Philippine Islands was not entitled to a trial by jury, and that the Constitution of the United States did not apply to the Philippine Islands. This decision is correct, because it is based on the fact that the Constitution of the United States by express enactment of Congress does not apply to the Philippine Islands, and this fact is expressly recognised in the Dorr Case, for the Court in writing its opinion stated:

"The legislation upon the subject shows that not only has Congress hitherto refrained from incorporating the Philippines into the United States, but in the act of 1902, providing for temporary civil government (32 Stat. at L. 691, chap. 1352), there is express provision that Sec. 1891 of the Revised Statutes of 1878 shall not apply to the Philippine Islands. This is the section giving force and effect to the Constitution and laws of the United States, not locally inapplicable, within all the organised territories, and every territory thereafter organised, as elsewhere within the United States. The requirements of the Constitution as to a jury are found in article 3 Sec. 2:".

We have no such statute in this jurisdiction. Even under such a statute as is mentioned in the Dorr Case there was a strong disserting opinion by Mr. Justice Harlam who said.

"Such a mode of constitutional interpretation plays havoc with the old fashioned ideas of the fathers, who took care to say that the Constitution was the supreme law,—supreme everywhere, at all times, and over all persons who are subject to the authority of the United States. According to the principles of the opinion just rendered, neither the governor nor any American civil officer in the Philippines, although citizens of the United States, although under an oath to support the Constitution, and although in there distant possessions for the United States, can claim, of right, the benefit of the jury provisions of the Constitution, if tried for crime committed on these Islands."

We accordingly submit that the constitution of the United States

applies to American citizens residing in China. To hold otherwise, we respectfully submit, would be to hold that the Biddle Case is not controlling. To hold that the Biddle Case is not controlling would upset practically the whole of the jurisdiction of this court.

The defendant is entitled to a trial by jury by virtue of Federal Statutes On this subject congress has provided:

"Sec. 566 Trial of issues of fact). The trial of issues of fact in the district courts, in all causes except cases in equity and cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, and except as otherwise provided in proceeding in bankruptcy, shall be by jury," (Federal Statute, annotated Vol. 6, p. 121, Sec. 566:)

This act is an act of Congress. The United States Court for China is virtually a District Court.

This court in the case of Ezra vs Merriman; held that acts of Congress were applicable to this jurisdiction and based its decision largely on the Biddle Case. This court has held that the divorce laws as specified in the District of Columbia and Alaske code are applicable to tnis jurisdiction. This court has further held that the bankruptcy law is applicable here.

The fact that a jury trial is not mentioned in the act establishing this court is no answer to this argument. In the case of the petition for bankruptcy of the American Food Manufacturers Co. Ltd., counsel raised the point that the bankruptcy act was a special one, and therefore did not apply to this jurisdiction. The court over ruled this contention and stated;

"Now there can be no question but that the Federal Bankruptcy Act is a law of the United States, Counsel for the demurrants referred to it as a special act because it covers a particular field of legislation; but in that sense practically all statutes are special. In territorial scope the act was as broad as it then could be made for it covered specifically all American territory. Moreover, the subject is one which is expressly reserved to Congress for it 'to establish. . . . uniform laws . . . throughout the United States,' and the exercise of that power suspends all insolvency laws enacted by the states. It would seem difficult, indeed to find a better example of a general 'law of the United States' as distinguished from a special one."

There may be found in the Judicial code a complete statutory enactment of the law relating to juries and jury trial.

Chap. 12, Judicial code Vol. 5, Federal Stat. p. 1063.

Not only does the Judicial code contain a complete statement of the procedure relating to jury trials, but a similar act is found in Chapter 14 of the Compiled Laws of the Territory of Alaska. Not only do the Federal Statutes and the Alaska Code contain provisions regarding juries and jury trials but the District of Columbia Code has provisions regarding juries. The provisions as to jury trials are, we submit just as applicable to this jurisdiction as the bankruptcy law, the divorce law and the corporration law. This court, we submit with due respect cannot hold one portion of the Federal Statutes and Alaska Code applicable and another portion inapplicable. The defendant was convicted under the Federal Code. If he has to suffer the penalties of this code, is he not entitled to receive the benefits of this self same code?

It is accordingly submitted that the defendant is entitled to a jury trial by virtue of the statutes of the United States and that the absence of such a jury trial makes the conviction void and invalid.

CONCLUSION

In conclusion, we beg to point out and reiterate that the laws of the District of Columbia and the Territory of Alaska have been extended to this jurisdiction both by Congressional enactment and Judicial interpretation. The Constitution of the United States, according to its own terms, is the Supreme Law of the land, and accordingly the Supreme Law of the District of Columbia and the Territory of Alaska. If the Constitution of the United States is the Supreme Law of the jurisdictions whose laws have been extended here, it must follow as a logical sequence that the Constitution of the United States applies to American citizens residing in China. We further beg to reiterate that both by Congressional enactment and judicial interpretation by the Court of Appeals and this court, the Federal Statutes have been extended to American citizens residing in China. The Federal Statutes provide for a trial by jury, and if this is so, and it is so, it must follow as a logial conclusion that a person charged with crime in this jurisdiction is entitled to a trial by jury.

We beseech the court not to be misled by the Ross Case because:

1st. At the time the Ross Case was decided the laws of the District of Columbia and the Territory of Alaska had not been extended to American citizens residing in Japan or China.

2nd. That at the time the Ross Case was decided this court had not been established and the Biddle decision had not been rendered; and,

3rd. The reasons given in the Ross Case for not allowing a jury trial are wholly inapplicable here. We further beseech the court not to be misled by the Dorr Case for the Constitution by express enactment of Congress does not apply to the Philippine Islands.

It is only by virtue of Article 6 of the United States Constitution that persons charged with crime enjoy the right of a speedy and public trial; to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against them; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in their favor, and; to have the assistance of counsel for their defence. This self same Article 6 provides for a jury trial.

If the accused is not entitled to a trial by jury, he is not entitled to a public and speedy trial; to be confronted by his accusers; to the right of having compulsory process of obtaining witnesses in his favor; and to the benefit of counsel. The court cannot hold one part of Article 6 of the Constitution inapplicable and another applicable. The Constitution must be applied or not applied to American citizens residing in China. If the Constitution of the United States does not apply, then American citizens in China are deprived of the right of having all that they hold sacred and inviolate. If the Constitution of the United States does not apply here, it is time that an act of Congress be passed similar to the declaration of rights enacted by Congress in regard to the Philippine Islands. (Federal Statutes Annotated 1140)

We have no such Declaration of Right in this jurisdiction, but we have the Constitution which, we submit, applies to American citizens residing in China.

In the event that this motion is over-ruled and the court holds that the defendant is not entitled to a trial by jury, then we shall ask the Appellate Court not to reverse the Ross Case but to sustain the doctrine of the Biddle Case. In this connection we respectfully ask the Court to consider what a reversal of the Biddle Case would mean to this jurisdiction. It would mean that we would have no corporation law, no bankruptcy ylaw, no divorce law, no inheritance law, and no code of civil procedure.

It is respectfully submitted that the judgment of the court convicting defendant without the aid of a jury of murder in the second degree and sentencing him to serve for life in Bilibid Prison is void and invalid as being contrary to the Constitution of the United States.

The defendant accordingly prays for a new trial and a trial by jury.

Respectfully submitted.

NOTICE
Butcheries both in the International and French Settlements here by jointly notify the Public:
Shanghai Butchers usually purchase sheep and calves from the interior of China. In consequence of the recent famine and the high cost of food prices, labour and farm hands in the interior, the raising of cattle and sheep has become difficult, and therefore the supply of meat has decreased in comparison with that of previous years. The price of meat has risen to a much higher price above normal, say, an increase of about 5 to 6 cents per pound.
In spite of the difficulty and high cost of transportation of animals from the interior, and the high price of rice and other foods, Shanghai Butchers sell meat to their customers as cheaply as possible, with the intention of retaining their good connection with customers.
A meeting has been held by all Shanghai Butchers and a resolution passed that an increase or certain prices per pound shall be made on cash sales as well as contracted transactions.
We wish the public to understand that the increase in prices was decided upon only after the most careful consideration and only for necessity's sake.
The following Butchers in the International Settlement will come under the above resolution:
Yue-Shing, The Oxford Butchery, Cosmopolitan, Wei-Zee, Zang-Zoong, Teh-Fong, Yung-Foong, The Hanbury, The Shanghai Butchers, Yun-Kee, Foh-Loong, Zung-Zoong, Ziang-Kee, San-Mow, Yuen-Chaong, Woo-Mei, Yue-Woo, Yao-Tsing-Kee, Zee-Ah-De, Tsen-Kee, Hop-Shing, Dong-Hing, Yah-Foong, North-Hong-Kee, Tsen-Tai, Yung-Tai-Foh, The Asia, San-Tai, and Shing-Mow.
The following Butchers in the French Settlement will come under the above resolution:
Zung-Shing-Kun-Kee, Yung-Sin, Sau-Woo, Zung-Shing-Hop Kee, Yung-Shing-Fau, Hong-Kee, and Dong-Hing.

NO CAN DO HERE

In France a contest for snow plowing open to motor tanks, capable of removing snow eight inches deep on a path at least ten feet wide.

AND IN SHANGHAI?

surface of roads in the United States oil is spread from carts during the making of the road to the amount of one or two gallons to each square yard of surface.

NOTHING ELSE TO DO

Convicts at Auburn Prison are turning out 4,000 sets of motor tags a day, or about 25,000 a week, for the 1921 New York State licenses.

Hankow Market

The British Chamber of Commerce of Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, January 19.

FINANCE AND MONEY MARKET

There has been very little business doing and no Bills offering. As rates declined a small demand for remittance made its appearance, and some inter-Bank business was also done. Taels T.T. on Shanghai: Chinese market remained steady at about 97.5. Dollars, declined again to 69.05-69.25 buyers and sellers. Native Interest, rose to 11 percent.

IMPORTS

There seems to be a little better feeling in the market but it still remains lifeless. No Clearances.

EXPORTS

Some business is reported in Sesamum Seed and Honan Goatskins at full prices; Hides and Goatskins are firmly held. Wood Oil business is stagnant as far as Home markets are concerned, with quotations 20 percent below present local market value, which is sustained by the native demand for spot goods.

Cotton

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their cotton market report of today.

China Cotton:—Our market during the past week cannot be said to have undergone any notable change and remained practically featureless evincing, however, a steady undertone at the close. Operations being restricted owing to the fast approaching China New Year Holidays so that nothing startling either one way or the other may be expected until after the holidays are over. In the interim, however, it would be advisable to absorb sundry cheap lots that may be offering, for while the present indications in Mid-Americans and Indians show gradual declines such are fairly counterbalanced by the ever drooping tendency in silver exchange thus as it were stabilising more or less the position of the local staple supported by the healthiness in the situation of the Yarn Markets. Tone of the market Steady.

N. B.—Own next issue will appear after the China New Year festivities.

The Question Of Indemnity

YESTERDAY'S dispatches make it plain that the Inter-Allied conference at Paris has struck a snag. "Optimism regarding the outcome is now waning," declares one Reuter message. The French demand that Germany be made to pay 42 annual instalments of 12 billion gold marks each, totalling, as we make it, 504 billion gold marks, or 126 billion gold dollars, evidently has appalled the British. They are unable to figure out how Germany can pay such a sum. The French on the other hand assert that Germany not only can pay it, but that she must be made to pay it. The Belgians, according to one message, are now trying to find a middle ground, on which their friends, the British and the French, can meet. It is an interesting world.

A New York exchange, discussing the revival of the German dye industry, recently observed that "this will be bad news for competing manufacturers and for those who fear the general revival of German competition, but it will encourage those who expect to collect the German indemnity."

On top of this a couple of professors issued warning that the Allies and Associated Powers will have to feed the Germans for some time to come, as otherwise they will not have the physical or nervous power requisite for the amount of work they will have to do to pay their bill.

The New York Times points out that it will be impossible for France to collect a big indemnity and at the same time prevent Germany's economic recovery. The Germans, it says, have paid up a good deal of reparation, and if they are to pay it all they must be given help. Proceeding, The Times says:

"But why has not that help been given already? The answer is that the Germans have frightened it away. They so frankly refuse to pay anything they are not compelled to pay that those who might help them hold back for fear their money will be wasted. The Argentine demonstration at Geneva may not be of much importance in the history of the League, but it evoked some interesting comments in the German press. From reactionary to Socialist, all sorts of papers set up the triumphant, if premature, cry that this meant the death of the League and the clearing of the way for 'the true league,' in which Germany is to be a powerful, honored and non-paying member. Complaints of governmental extravagance are frequent in Germany itself; multitudes of needless jobs, waste of money on all sides—this from the moderate now in power. Such money as the reactionaries are able to get hold of they spend on arming counter-revolutionary organisations for the war of revenge. The private extravagance of which so much is made is no doubt confined to very limited circles, but it seems clear that the Germans would rather do anything with their money than pay it to France.

The Germans, like the French, cannot have it both ways. If they want help to get on their feet, they must prepare to pay the price. In the work that Germany is to do there must be profit for Germany, but France and the other recipients of the indemnity are partners in the profit and must not be cheated of their share. It is a matter of educating the temperament of a nation, which is slow work; but the sooner the Reparation Commission fixes the total of the bill the better. That has been far too long delayed, but it would be better to fix it in the next few weeks than to wait till the Treaty limit of May 1. When the Germans know what is expected of them they may realise that it will pay them to try to carry out their obligation."

REVERSE PROFITEERING

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—In my address on Shanghai Civic Problems recently given at a meeting of the Civic League, I referred as an illustration of rent profiteering to the case of landlords who paid Tls. 4,000 to purchase the lease of a tenant, stating that the next tenants would have to make the bargain profitable. Unfortunately the full facts were not disclosed, and I now understand that the landlords required the premises for their own use. It is not, therefore, a case of profiteering at all and in case the allusion should be recognised, I shall esteem it a favor if you will allow me to state the facts in your paper.

Yours faithfully,
A. J. Hughes.

CHILDREN OF STORM

Children Of Storm. By Ida A. R. Wylie. New York: John Lane Company.

Whether marriage between two individuals of different social casts can ever be successful is the discussion-scared question propounded in Ida A. R. Wylie's latest novel. The "Children of Storm" of the title are Ursula Seton, daughter of a wealthy and cultivated English family, and Adam Brodie, son of a London greengrocer, whose valor in the lines has raised him from the ranks to a majorship at the time he meets Ursula. They are married in France and keep their union a secret, fearing their families at home will be incapable of sharing their war-born contempt for petty social distinctions.

When Ursula's husband appears in London, after being among "the missing" for nine months, their misgivings are justified. The world that seemed so fine to them "out there" begins to crumble around them immediately they acknowledge their relationship to their families. Doubts as to the wisdom of their impulsive wedding assail them; their daily life is tarnished by the chasm between their viewpoint and that of the world in which they live. Ursula is shocked by the realisation of her husband's uncouthness, and his pride is in turn wounded by the reception he receives from his wife's family. In his disillusionment he laments bitterly:

"When I came here before I was all blown up about what I'd done, I'd made good. An officer and a gentleman—me a grocer's son. I didn't believe there was another like me. Now I'm just a tin soldier with all the paint knocked off."

But Ursula will not have it so. Loyally she protests:

"It was the big part of us that chose. If we were wrong then there isn't anything real at all—everything fine and good is just a bit of deception—no one can believe in anything."

But despite their desperate clinging to each other, despite their protestations that the little things of daily life cannot shatter their great love, their happiness drifts inexorably toward destruction. First they try living at the Setons. The attempt fails dismally. Then they go to Adam Brodie's family, and the discord in their lives grows more insistent. Finally, in desperation and despair, they get their own home, but there, too, they are both utterly miserable. Doubt of the wisdom of their marriage finally conquers them and they separate.

Then a situation arises that puts Adam in the same heroic light in which he first appeared to Ursula. Lord Ivonrood, Ursula's grandfather, puts Adam in command of his vast mills, which are the storm center of a labor uprising, and Adam emerges triumphant over the forces of lawlessness.

The author fails signally to answer the question she raises. She shirks a positive answer, evading it by showing that "the Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under their skins"—in times of great spiritual or emotional distress only. If any definite conclusion can be adduced from the evidence of her story it would be that only the dreamer can be consistently great in action, a conclusion far removed from the question of the possible success of marriages between persons of different social stations.

"Children of Storm" contains some dramatic passages and some character-revealing dialogue, but the author cannot be said to meet satisfactorily the artistic demands of her self-imposed, ambitious theme.

ARE WE ONE-SIDED?

My Dear Domino:

With reference to the article in your column on "walking the chalk line," in "Are We All One-Sided?" I think the following will be of interest. In 1917 when my battery was in "rest!" and several of the men were suffering from nerves, shock, etc., a couple of well known nerve doctors came along and conducted several interesting experiments and examinations, and the very experiment you mention was one of these.

A string about 30 yards long was pegged on the ground and the whole battery, blindfolded, walked along this line. Some 130 men tried to walk this line, and if I remember rightly, only 4 succeeded!! Of the remainder all had swerved well to the right, except 3 men, who were found to be left handed!

During the discussion which followed the doctors gave rather elaborate explanations which the 'lay' mind could scarcely follow, but it was left to a psychologist to give the explanation which even the doctors admitted was probably the best one. Many years ago when man was a cave or forest dweller, the shield was always carried on the left arm, the spear, sword or axe being carried in the right hand. Therefore the body naturally inclined to the right for cover, if the body was turned to the left it was left uncovered. Therefore when in the dark man instinctively swerves to the right. Hoping these remarks will be of interest, Yours etc.

ONE-SIDED EYEBROWS

Another reader calls my attention to the fact that as far as our eyebrows are concerned we are certainly one-sided. I couldn't believe it. I have heard about people in joy and distress raising their eyebrows, but to be told that they were one-sided seemed to take away from the natural beauty of the human race.

As a matter of fact he was not far out of it. He came and demonstrated the fact. He took a ruler, that happened to be lying on my desk, and said "Look," wherewith he placed it across his massive brows and surely enough one of his eyebrows was slightly higher than the other—or in other words—one of his eyebrows was slightly lower than the other.

Being still unconvinced he experimented upon me, and for the first time in my long and troubled life, I am convinced that my right eyebrow is certainly nearer to heaven than the left. But try it yourself and let me know the result.

SEEING DOUBLE

Dear Domino,

Re your article about our all being a bit one-sided. Let me give you my experience. I have often noticed that after dining at my club, and dining very well, I have been a bit one-sided. I have found that my right eye has seen one picture and my left, in order to show its independence, has seen another. In fact I have seen two images at the same time. Can you explain it?

Yours, etc, Pussyfoot.

Dear Pussyfoot,

I have naturally never felt just like you have, but after consultation with one or two of our eminent physicians, I can explain the matter. It seems that one of your friends has a hynotic effect upon you. His name is Johnny Walker. If you refuse to have anything to do with him in future you will find that the defect in your vision will rapidly right itself.

Yours, Domino.

AMBIDEXTROUS

Left-handers are very useful in cricket. Get a really good left handed bowler, like Wilfred Rhodes, and he will send any team back to the pavilion. Secure a fine left wing and he will be a shorn in the side of any soccer eleven. But left handers at school have, until recently, had rather a difficult task. Patiently have tried to convince the teacher that they can turn out just as good results with their left paw as they can with their right, but just as patiently have the teachers insisted, that their transcription must be written with the right. but just as patiently have the teachers insisted that their transcript must be written with the right.

Then comes the fiat of the famous headmaster of Eton, England's best known public school. If we are one-sided, he says, then don't seek to alter nature, or you will spoil things and probably make your subject an idiot. Now left-handers can write with the left to their hearts' content, and from what I have seen of the results, the "rights" are often left.

THE MONOCLE

It has been a fashion in the British army for the officers to enhance their appearance by wearing a monocle. They have been imitated of course by every Tom, Dick and Harry. But is the monocle the result of our one-sidedness? Is one eye very frequently weaker than the other? If it is the shooting eye, is the monocle the one and best solution to the defect?

Only One In Three Women Vote

Analysis Of Returns Shows That Five Men To Three Women Went To Ballot Booths In New York State

BY WILLIAM L. CHENERY
(New York Times)

The extent to which women voted in the election of 1920 is only now becoming apparent. It is clear that woman suffrage did not double the vote. In New York State the participation of women appears to have added between 1,000,000 and 1,100,000 votors to the election rolls. In 1910 there were 2,751,521 women over 21 years of age in this State. The percentage of increase in the population so far announced by the Census Bureau would indicate that there are upwards of 3,000,000 women of voting age in New York at the present time. It is estimated that only about one in every three of the women eligible to vote actually did so in the Presidential election.

A much larger proportion of men vote. The number varies, naturally, with the interest in the given election. In the President election in 1908 the number rose to nearly five out of every seven of voting age. In 1912, however, only about four out of every seven voted. This year the proportion may be approximately reckoned at seventeen to eighteen out of every thirty, or nearly two out of every three.

These are preliminary estimates. The full official election returns are not completed, but the data already in are sufficient to make the calculations fairly certain.

Complete election returns from up State made public by the Secretary of State, coupled with the preliminary figures for New York City, show the following Gubernatorial vote for four candidates, with the Debs vote of the Socialists:

Miller	1,334,540
Smith	1,260,335
Malone	68,447
Thompson	36,377
Debs	205,000
Total	2,904,699

The Debs vote was probably twice as large as the Socialist Gubernatorial vote. The revised total for the State may, therefore, be estimated at about 2,800,000. In 1916 the total Presidential vote—a man's vote—was 1,706,354. The man's vote probably increased at least 100,000 during the four years between 1916 and 1920. That is about the rate of increase which might be estimated from the general growth in the population of the State. But because of the possibility that no more men voted in 1920 than in 1916, the figures of four years ago may be kept for the measure of the man vote.

It is desirable to discount the male vote in this manner because, in spite of a steadily growing population, the Presidential vote cast in New York has remained stationary by reason of the varying interest in the elections at different times. The vote was slightly larger in 1904 than in 1912, for example, and there was only about 160,000 increase between 1896 and 1912. The male vote for 1916, considering the further fact that interest in a Presidential election has been seldom higher than that shown in the last contest, will accordingly be taken as a conservative measure of the men's vote in November, 1920.

Women thus added, apparently, somewhere between 1,000,000 and 1,100,000 votes to the election in New York State. In Illinois, where the woman vote was separted, the actual number of women voting for Harding and Cox was 736,562. The earlier votes in Illinois showed the proportion lucidly. In the Fall registration of 1916 in Chicago 510,425 men and 306,727 women enrolled. It is plain that women do not yet vote "as early and as often" as do their husbands and brothers and other masculine associates.

The figures at hand confirm the impressions entertained by suffrage leaders. Mrs. Nettie R. Shuler, Corresponding Secretary of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, said the other day that the suffragists estimated that men and women voted in the proportion of five men to three women. Said Mrs. Shuler:

"So far as we can judge, Mrs. Catt's estimate of five to three still stands. Our data department has written to secretaries of State and other election officials, but so far no official estimates have been obtained.

"No groups of women I know of refrained from voting. The only groups which seemed uninterested were the women who belong to the bridge-playing classes—the parasitic women who do nothing except amuse themselves. I do not think that they, as a whole, did not vote. They, however, were not willing to take much trouble. They are not the ultra smart women, nor are they the anti-suffragists. These did vote, and were interested in the election. It was chiefly the light, amusement-seeking type who did not respond.

"In addition to that, tradition and habit were the factors which made fewer women than men participate. Before the election, leaders of every class urged their followers to come out. I said that the bridge-playing woman was, on the whole, least concerned about the vote. That is true, and yet in fairness to her it should be said that her type in many places is exhibiting the keenest interest in the citizenship schools which the suffrage association is establishing. Four hundred such schools have been conducted in Missouri. In Michigan there are more than two hundred. In Missouri a normal school for teachers of citizenship has been held. The League of Woman Voters has branches in forty-six out of forty-eight States, and citizenship courses have been given in forty-two States."

Mrs. Catt's own interpretation was prepared before she sailed for Europe. In part she said:

"The Presidential election was the first test of universal suffrage in the United States. It will be a long time before all returns are in and before the States will be able to report fully concerning women's part in the great contest. It is estimated that between 28,000,000 and 30,000,000 of votes were cast, as compared with 18,000,000 in 1916. This is the largest vote ever cast in any country.

"It is estimated that the proportional numbers of men and women in the vast electorate when the entire country is averaged will be about three women to five men; in other words, more men than women, while 50-50 was the estimate which many election districts reported. Women voted in all the States except Georgia and Mississippi. There the law requiring registration of all voters four months prior to the election barred out women enfranchised by the Federal amendment.

"In most if not all States women worked with the party organisations effectively and in large numbers. In those States where suffrage associations have been alert and far visioned enough to hold non-partisan schools for citizenship, women were trained for intelligent duty as election officials, and many thousands of them did serve with distinction.

"The vote came to women in many States too late for the best preparatory work to be done. Political parties worked to get their own women to register and vote the straight ticket; the League of Women Voters worked to get all women to register, regardless of political faith, and urged them to choose their own party affiliations with the aid of reason. Had the vote come earlier, more women would have voted and more women would have been trained for election work.

"On the whole women liked the vote and men liked to have them vote. The timid who ventured into politics with many reservations found the casting of a vote easier and more interesting than they had supposed. The best informed found valuable contributions to the study of mass movement in the psychology of the campaign—the partisans enjoyed the popularity of swimming with the current and suffragists retaining an impersonal point of view learned many a lesson not taught in party textbooks. Women have good and sufficient reason to be fairly well satisfied with this, their first participation in a great national contest."

In the primary matter of actual participation in elections, the record of male voting is significant. During the earlier years of the Republic, between 1780 and 1790, it has been estimated, about 16 or 17 percent of the male inhabitants had the right to vote. But out of this relatively small minority only about 3 percent actually did vote. Government was in the hands of a precious few when the foundations of the Republic were being laid. The right to participate in elections and the habit of participation, once the right was obtained, have both moved somewhat slowly. Yet it is impossible to deny that both the enlargement of the male electorate and the extension of suffrage to women have tended to change the issues and the emphasis on issues in American political campaigns. In Illinois, where the separation of the ballots made possible an actual study of the votes cast by the sexes, it has been plain that while women achieved nothing revolutionary their strength in a slightly greater degree than that of men was thrown to the support of "reform" candidates, so-called.

"J'accuse" In New Warning

Author Of Famous Arraignment Of Germany's War Methods Shows Monarchists' Growing Strength

By the Author of "J'Accuse"

"J'Accuse," published anonymously in Switzerland in 1915, denounced Germany's attack on world peace with such force and knowledge as to create an international sensation. Not for some time did it transpire that the author was Dr. Richard Grelling, a prominent member of the German Social-Democratic Party.

In an article entitled "Germany Since the Revolution," in the January number of the Yale Review, the author of "J'Accuse" issues a warning evidently intended to strike as hard a blow as "J'Accuse." This warning is of the growing and now menacing power of militarism and monarchism in Germany. The writer, after pointing out that the German Republic was the result of pressure from without and not a spontaneous movement from within, says in a summary:

"The danger to Germany's future is to be looked for, not in the party of the Left, but in that of the Right. The fear of Bolshevism, which militarists and reactionaries have now been exploiting for two years, is far more dangerous to Germany's peaceful development than Bolshevism itself. The watchword. 'We must protect State and society against terror and overthrow,' which has been used since December, 1918, when the Independents resigned from the Government, has brought about the creation of an army of mercenaries that has gradually become the real master of the fate of the German people, imposing its will as law upon the civil Government.

"It is well known that universal compulsory military service in Germany was abolished by the Treaty of Versailles. The army of mercenaries, which had taken the place of the old army, and which contained many hundred thousands of highly paid soldiers under the command of William's generals and officers, has now been reduced, in accordance with the decrees at Spa to 100,000 men.

"The support of this army, with other similar expenses, is a leech sucking the blood of the German people. In the budget of 1920 the estimated cost of an army of 100,000 men is put at two and a half billion marks. At such a budget one does not know whether to weep or to laugh. One is impelled to weep over this lavish expenditure by the German people, now beggared, and to laugh at the ridiculous farce of pretending that an asylum for officers of the old regime exists for the protection of the German Republic.

"Here are a few items from the latest military budget: The army of 100,000 men has 54 Generals, 795 staff officers, 205 Lieutenant Colonels and 1,058 Captains. To every ninety soldiers are assigned a Captain and two Lieutenants, not to mention the higher officers. There is a non-commissioned officer for every five men, so that instruction in the 'goose-step' will be given by 16,413 non-commissioned officers, who serve as common soldiers but draw the pay of their rank.

"Picture to yourself this force obedient to its monarchist leader, a General who desires, and can desire, nothing more ardently than the earliest possible return of the beloved Hohenzollerns, under whose rule Germany prospered brilliantly and whose defeat resulted from that 'dagger thrust in the back,' the German revolution. General von Seeckt differs but little from Noske in his military policy. Noske was an opportunist, the guiltless, guilty victim of the ensnaring camarilla of officers, who systematically led him to believe in the fidelity of his army to the republic, but who on the night of March 12, 1920, when this fidelity was to be tested, basely left him in the lurch. Seeckt, on the other hand, whom the blind politicians in Berlin have stationed at the most crucial and important post in the republic, is clear-sighted and knows what he wants. Every one of his acts of commission and of omission shows to any observer of experience what the republic has to expect from this General if a stop is not at once put to his activity.

"Of the numerous signs of William's spirit which this General gives almost every day, I shall mention but one example. This year, on Sept. 2, the anniversary of the Battle of Sedan, which even during the last years of the imperial regime had passed unobserved, Herr von Seeckt issued the following proclamation in the official order of the day:

"'Today, the anniversary of Sedan, we call to mind our fathers and predecessors of fifty years ago. Mere holiday rejoicing is not becoming in this time of great distress. Let us observe the day with the proud knowledge that we are worthy of our fathers, in quiet hope for Germany's future, and with high resolve to keep alive in the Reichswehr and among the people the spirit which after the victory of Sedan led us over hundreds of battlefields in the West and in the East.' . . .

"In the camp at Munster, where several divisions of the Reichswehr were stationed, the anniversary of Sedan was celebrated by the unveiling of a bust of William. This stood upon a high pedestal with the old war flag of imperial Germany at its foot. The commander of a division made an ultra-patriotic speech, which telegrams of homage were sent to William, Hindenburg, and Ludendorff, and, above all, to Captain Ehrhardt, who, as commander of the division that carried out the counter-revolution of last March, had been formally summoned to answer to the charge of high treason and mutiny, but had never been placed under arrest and will go scot free, like all the opponents of the republic who wear uniforms.

"Of such monarchist demonstrations I could cite hundreds of examples. On the twenty-seventh of August, the anniversary of the Battle of Tannenberg, an exchange of telegrams took place between William and the 'National Alliance of German Officers.' William replied as follows to his faithful officers: 'I am deeply grateful to the National Alliance of German Officers for the remembrance of the twenty-seventh of August. Would that another Tannenberg might be granted to the Fatherland:—William I. R.' William still signs himself 'Imperator Rex.' Evidently, while felling trees at Amerongen he has not yet given up hope of sometime laying his axe to the republic. And behold the officers of the republic, with the benevolent toleration of the Minister of Defense, pledging to the destroyer of Germany their royalty and their assistance for new deeds of blood!

"The new militarism has recently assumed a most dangerous form in the organisation of a nation-wide alliance, of which the founder and leader is a Bavarian forester and Captain of Reserves named Escherich. Any one who has seen a German newspaper in recent months must have come, day after day, upon long articles concerning 'Orgesch'—an abbreviation for 'Organisation Escherich.' If these articles emanate from the Right, they indicate harmlessness on the part of this civilian organisation for "self-protection." If, however, they come from the Left, they warn of great danger in this armed alliance. The Orgesch has in fact, no other purpose than the preparation for the counter-revolution down to the smallest detail. The affray of March, 1920, failed because it was insufficiently prepared for and was staged before its time. The next attempt is to be better planned, better carried out. With the benevolent inactivity of Seeckt's Reichswehr it will attain the desired result. But for success it is, above all, requisite that the supporters of the Orgesch remain in possession of their arms—which have been stored in hundreds of hiding places in the country districts—while the groups of the people who might make a stand against military reaction have their weapons taken away.

"Pursuant to the settlement at Spa, a disarmament law was passed according to the terms of which only the Reichswehr, the police and other officials in uniform were permitted to carry arms, the remainder of the population being obliged to deliver up their weapons to the authorities. A former Prussian Landrat was appointed State Commissioner to supervise the enforcement of this law, and it is not too early to prophesy with certainty that the laboring classes will be disarmed, while the counter-revolutionary organisations — particularly the Orgesch—will remain in possession of their weapons. 'Who will dare to deprive the loyal elements of their arms? He who would make the German people defenseless on account of Spa would bring on himself everlasting disgrace.' This challenge was uttered by a man who until recently was Minister of Justice of the Bavarian republic; a man calling himself a democrat, a lawyer, who thus teaches the people how to obey the law.

"This bold pronouncement, shows—as do many other signs—that the counter-revolution has advanced further in Bavaria than in any other section of Germany. In the Spring of 1919, Bavaria, inflamed by the murder of Eisner, was the leader in the movement toward Bolshevism. Her almost childish imitation of the Russian experiment, due to the psychological reaction of the moment, collapsed within a few weeks because the times were politically unripe for it, and it ended in a bloody White Terror.

"At present Bavaria is leading the way in the opposite direction toward counter-revolution. In spite of all the denials of the Bavarian Government, which consists exclusively of the civilian and conservative elements, I have no manner of doubt, reasoning from many facts which have come to light that the next to the largest State in the German federation is nearer to the restoration of the monarchy than any other part of Germany. The scion of the old royal house of Wittelsbach is regarded in his hereditary lands as a sacrifice to William's desire for war rather than as his guilty colleague and accomplice. The deep-rooted aversion to Prussianism, which persists in the soul of the Bavarian in spite of the splendid development of the new German Empire since 1870, broke out again during the war, and the feeling has increased since Germany's shipwreck. The greater the guilt of the Hohenzollerns, the less that of the Wittelsbachs—such is the trend of popular thought which is now preparing the ground in Bavaria for the activities of the monarchists. It is not by accident that the idea and the origin of the Orgesch are both Bavarian.

"These Bavarian intrigues threaten not only the republican form of government in Germany, but also the stability of the German State. The Bavarian counter-revolution is opposed to centralisation. Disguised as 'federalism,' its aim is to loosen one important stone after another from the structure of the State, to revise the Weimar Constitution with a view to limiting the powers of the national Government, and to win greater sectional independence in military affairs—for instance, in the matter of the enforcement of the law of disarmament. The counter-revolutionists go so far as to claim for Bavaria independent control of her foreign policy, the right to send diplomatic representatives to foreign countries, and to receive foreign representatives at her capital. The appointment and the recognition of the new French Minister at Munich mark a beginning already made in the direction of an independent foreign policy. In the course of time this might easily lead to the long desired goal of the Bavarian Particularists—the creation of a South German-Austrian alliance, which would amount to the same thing as the dissolution of the German State.

"Between these two fires—that of the Right and that of the Left—stands the house of the German people today, and at any moment the devouring flames may seize the loft of the building, which is filled with tinder. But, as I have already said, the fire from the Right is the greater danger. Disarmament ought to extinguish both fires, but, as things now stand in Germany, only the fire from the Left will be smothered by it.

"There is an alliance, called the 'Republican Fuhrerbund,' of military leaders who are genuinely republican in spirit and who, because of their fidelity to the republic, are exposed continually to unbelievable tricks and insults on the part of the monarchist majority among the officers. This Fuhrerbund sent out early last August a cry of warning to the world, which was an illuminating commentary on German conditions.

"In the course of this appeal the republic was designated as the stage setting for the monarchy which is again gathering itself together. It demands for the rescue of Germany the dissolution of all counter-revolutionary military organisations and the placing of the armed forces without exception under the civil power. These are justifiable and, indeed, fundamental demands. But they must, unfortunately, remain nothing more than devout wishes, so long as a government led by Fehrenbach and Gessler holds in its hands the fate of the German people, and a Seeckt is at the head of the army.

"The German people, so far as can be foreseen—and I am forced to acknowledge it with the deepest sorrow—will not awake until it is too late. Just as the old imperial Germany of 1914 slept through four years of war and awoke only at the defeat, so the republican Germany of today will slumber until the flourish of trumpets of the new militarism announces to it the downfall of all that has been painfully won by the revolution. Then will follow a titanic combat between the military caste and the Proletariat, wherein the great mass of the bourgeoisie, again as in 1918, will take no active part. Unhappy Germany will be devoured by an internecine war such as the world has not yet seen. Then will come the political and economic disaster, already showing its grinning death's head, which will carry down with it all that is still standing.

"From this supreme misfortune may some kind fate save my people! But, if they are to be saved, immediate action must be taken."
